

What is Graphic Design?

Graphic design is a technique used to design or draw something. Web site designs, logos, animations, magazine layouts, drawings, photos, posters, advertisements and signs are all related to graphic design. Graphic design can also contain a message to people. Words are not always used as communication; pictures can be just as effective. As the saying goes, a picture can say a thousand words.

Graphic design is also about physical appearance.

Write in your own words what you think 'physical appearance' is.

Colour in this picture and see if you can blend the chameleon in with the background.
