

Name: _____

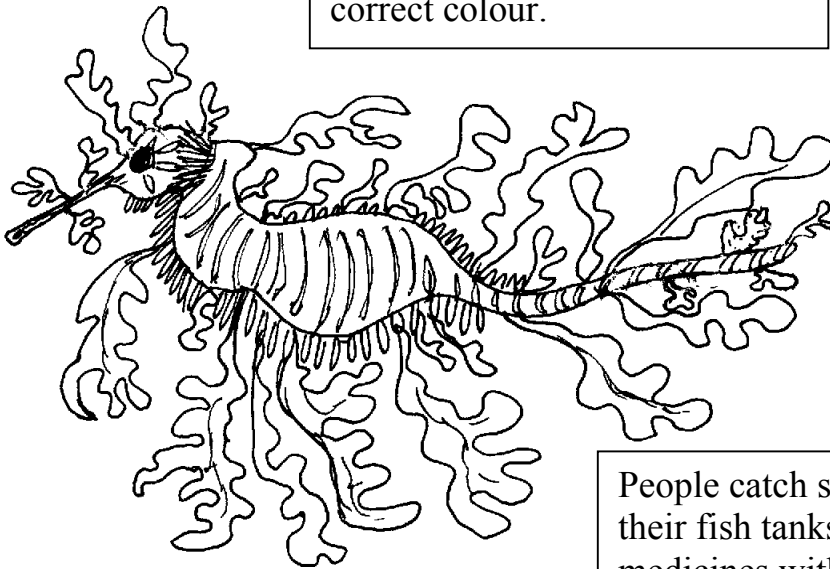

Leafy Seadragon

The leafy sea-dragon grows about 43 cm long. The leafy attachments on their body is like brown sea weed.

The leafy adult sea-dragons are green to yellow-brown.

The female has about 300 orange eggs. The male and female sea-dragons have lots of baby sea-dragons.

Colour the leafy sea-dragon the correct colour.

Draw or trace a map of Australia. Mark with red pencil where sea-dragons can be found.

People catch sea-dragons to put in their fish tanks and in Asia to make medicines with.

Sea-dragons are small fish that live in Southern Australian waters. They are in danger because too many get killed every year.

What do sea-dragons eat?